Practicing Faith Daily

Dear {{ contact.FIRSTNAME }},

“Now faith is confidence in what we hope for and assurance about what we do not see.”
— Hebrews 11:1

It is easy to trust God when the sun is shining, the bills are paid, and our relationships are perfectly smooth. But true faith is rarely forged in the light. Faith is built when we have to walk through the dark, trusting a God we cannot see to guide a path we cannot figure out.

Coming to believe that a Power greater than ourselves can restore us is not a one-time intellectual realization; it is a daily practice. It is the active decision to have confidence in God's promises even when our current circumstances look bleak.

Faith is what steadies the heart when the path is unclear. It allows us to take the next right step, not because we know the outcome, but because we know the Guide. You don't need to see the whole staircase today; you just need enough assurance to take the very first step.

What is one outcome you are stressing over because you cannot see the future? Today, verbally declare: "God, I cannot see how this ends, but I have confidence that You are holding it."

Father, strengthen my trust when I cannot see the way. In Jesus' Name, Amen.

Remember, seeking help is a sign of strength, not weakness. You deserve a life free from addiction.

Sincerely,

The RGV Road to Recovery Team
